

Terms & Conditions Mathematics Tour

This concert is dedicated to fans, and the following conditions have been established to prevent the resale of tickets at inflated prices and to minimize the risk of ticket purchasers being defrauded.

1. Only digital tickets are sold for this concert. Tickets will only be available on the Ticketmaster app, which is required to be downloaded on the ticket byers device. QR codes will be activated a couple of days before the show.
2. The tickets for this concert are personalized and may be canceled without refund if these terms are violated, up until the concert starts. Personalized tickets mean that the person who purchases the ticket is the same person attending the concert. See below for more information regarding purchasers buying multiple tickets.
3. The ticket purchaser's first and last name must be on the ticket. If the booking includes multiple tickets, the purchaser's name will appear on all tickets; therefore, the entire group, including the ticket purchaser whose name is on the tickets, must enter the arena together.
4. The ticket purchaser whose name is on the ticket must show valid identification at the entrance to the arena, along with the ticket and booking confirmation, to gain entry. If these conditions are not met, entry will be denied, and the ticket(s) will be canceled without a refund. Valid identification includes: valid ID card, valid driver's license, valid passport.
5. By accepting these terms, you confirm that you are the end consumer. All ticket purchases will be monitored and canceled without a refund if there is reasonable suspicion that tickets were purchased for resale in violation of these terms.
6. Ticket resale is only possible through Ticketmaster's own resale channel, Ticketmaster Resale, at face value. Any other resale outside of Ticketmaster Resale, whether private or commercial, is prohibited and will result in the tickets being canceled without a refund. Resale of tickets via Ticketmaster Resale will be possible from September 25, 2024, at 10:00 AM until 8 hours before the concert starts. Tickets not resold on Ticketmaster Resale will automatically revert to the original buyer unless the buyer cancels the resale earlier.
7. Besides the right to resell tickets via Ticketmaster Resale, name changes on tickets can only be made in exceptional cases, such as severe illness preventing attendance or death.
8. Each ticket purchaser is allowed to buy a maximum of 6 tickets per account.
9. Tickets for this concert are sold with the condition that rules and regulations regarding SARS-CoV-2, or its variants, may affect the concert's format, including capacity, entry regulations, and distancing requirements. In the event of capacity changes due to such restrictions, the organizer has the right to cancel the entire ticket order and refund the ticket price without further compensation to the ticket purchaser. Alternatively, the organizer may convert standing tickets to seating tickets or rearrange seating according to the best possible model under current restrictions or regulations. Service fees already paid will not be refunded.

10. Only tickets purchased from Ticketmaster are valid for entry. The organizer reserves the right to deny entry if the ticket was not purchased through Ticketmaster.

11. If a ticket purchaser violates any provision of these purchase terms, the purchased tickets will be canceled without a refund.

In addition to these terms, Ticketmaster's Purchase and Customer Terms and Conditions apply, except for the following points: 1.2 (Personal Use), 1.5.1 (Festival Tickets), 1.5.2 (Gift Vouchers), 1.8 (Purchases in Violation of Established Terms), 1.9.1 (Right of Withdrawal - Ticketmaster's Fan Guarantee), 1.11 (Exchange/Upgrade of Tickets), 1.13 (Verified Fan) These points are replaced by the corresponding provisions in the above terms. Beyond this, the general terms and conditions for Ticketmaster's services apply.